Report on Eid-Al-Fitr

Eid al-Fitr (Festival of Breaking Fast) is the first of two canonical festivals of Islam. Eid al-Fitr marks the end of Ramadan, the Muslim holy month of fasting, and is celebrated during the first three days of Shawwal, the 10th month of the Islamic calendar. It is forbidden to fast on the Day of Eid, and a specific prayer is nominated for this day. Zakat-ul-Fitr is also donated on this day, which is compulsory. It is the responsibility of the head of the household to ensure this is paid accordingly. It is usually given prior to the Eid prayers. The significance of this is to ensure those in need of help are provided for and are given the opportunity to celebrate Eid as well.

Objectives of celebrating Festivals in academics:

- There are many special days and festivals celebrated throughout the world but celebrating a festival in a school with friends and teachers is a very special thing for any child.
- A festival is an occasion of enjoyment and celebration which promotes a child's social interaction and harmony.
- As you learn to celebrate each other's festival, you will develop a sense of togetherness with other people worldwide.

The students of B.Ed of Royal College of Education and Research for Women organized the celebration of Eid on 25th April, 2023. The celebration was hosted by Sayyed Ayesha and Khan shagufta from SY.B.Ed it started by welcoming our Principal ma'am and all the Professors. The event began by seeking blessings from the almighty through the morning prayer and prayer song. To explain the significance of the festival of Eid an informative paper reading was done by a student of FY.B.Ed Shama Shah which beautifully explained the rituals performed on the day of Eid. Na'at a form of poetry in praise of the Islamic prophet, Muhammad was melodiously recited by the students of FY B.Ed Misba Baig and Seema Ansari Followed by the dance performances done by the students of FY B.Ed which added more grace to the celebration. The celebration was concluded by an energetic musical performance of Sufi Qawwali performed by the FY B.Ed students. The event gave all of us an insight of how the festival of Eid is celebrated and the significance of the day. The celebration ended with our principal ma'am Dr. Judy Grace Andrews, addressing the class by telling us the importance of living in peace, harmony and appreciating all the FY.B.Ed students for their active participation in the event. The event ended with the National Anthem.

The post learning outcomes from the Eid-ul-Fitr celebration organized by the students of FY.B.Ed. of Royal College of Education And Research For Women can be as follow:

Importance of celebrating festivals : Festivals are a great way to understand one's culture. They make us forget our cultural and religious differences. They unite people and they come together for the sole purpose of celebration and happiness. Other than that, festivals also help us embrace our culture and religion. They are very helpful in breaking the monotony of life.

Knowledge of Eid celebration: All the students acquired information about the Muslim festival of Eid-ul-Fitr, its significance, its importance and all the rituals performed on the day of Eid-ul-Fitr.

Cooperation and Teamwork: Teamwork and collaboration are the ability to work with others on a common task. It's about taking actions that respect the needs and contributions of others. It's also about contributing to and accepting the consensus and negotiating a solution to achieve the objectives of the team which was seen in the various performances like Dance, Qawwali and Naat. Coordination is the major aspect for the success of any event.

Feedback and motivation: The principal's message plays a very vital role as the appreciation for the active participation and the efforts motivates us all to continue the hard work and encouragement to the students to continue to actively participate in co-curricular activities.
