REFLECTION:

Founder's Day celebration was held on 12th October 2023 in Royal college campus with the theme "Festivals of India". It is an occasion to applaud the efforts of founder, trustees and philanthropist to make this campus a popular education hub. The chief guest for the event was Founder of Drop Dead Foundation, Mr. Aabid Surti. The event was attended by all the dignitaries, staff and students of sister concerns. The Royal College of Education and Research for Women presented a dance and drama performance focused on showcasing the two harvest festivals i.e Kunbi Festival of Goa and Pongal festival from Tamil Nadu. The performance showcased the traditions and customs related to both the festivals through its dances and enactments. The energetic and engaging performances aimed at providing a glimpse into the traditions, customs, and joy associated with Kunbi and Pongal festivals. The colourful attire, traditional dances, and festive music created an immersive experience. As B.Ed. students, it was a gratifying opportunity to not only delve into the rich diversity of Indian festivals but also to impart this knowledge to the younger students. The event served as a platform for cross-cultural understanding, fostering appreciation for the country's varied traditions. The event was an enriching and culturally vibrant experience.

Learning Outcomes Achieved:-

The event helped in making students aware about the contribution of founder and trustees towards the development of the institution. It also gave them an opportunity to be part of the achievements of the institution and helped in developing the feeling of belongingness among students towards the institution. The students also showcased their talent by participating in dance and drama performance of the harvest festivals of two states of India.

Feedback from the students:

Mariya: - The performances not only entertained but also educated the audience about the unique traditions of festivals of India

Sabina: - Enjoyed the lively and colourful performances

Asra: -Loved the creative enactment, dance and music. The performances conveyed the cultural richness of the festivals effectively.

Seema: It's a great platform to showcase our talents and skills.

Mahima: It's an honour to be part of Founder's Day celebration
