C. Alumnae Interaction and Motivation Sessions:

Throughout the year, the Alumna Cell coordinated regular interaction sessions where alumnae connected with the present batch, sharing experiences, offering guidance, and inspiring future educators.

D. Convocation:31/08/24

Venue: Multipurpose Room

The Royal College of Education and Research for Women organized a convocation ceremony Samavartana- 2021-2023. to officially award certificates and degrees to graduates of the batch of 2021-2023. It led to the strengthening of connections between graduates and the institution providing a platform for expressing appreciation to mentors and families. It was a memorable event, held in the multipurpose hall with the presence of esteemed dignitaries and the special guest, Dr. Sunayana Kadle. The program commenced with the lighting of the ceremonial lamp, symbolizing enlightenment, followed by a melodious song that set a solemn yet celebratory tone.

The felicitation of the guests and dignitaries was a gesture of gratitude, after which Ms. Mandrita Mitra delivered an insightful speech about the institution's values and achievements. Dr. Sunayana Kadle, the guest speaker, addressed the audience, sharing her valuable thoughts and inspiring the graduates. A Graduate, Ms. Fatima Shaikh further enriched the event by reflecting on her transformative teaching and learning experiences, showcasing the institution's impact on its students.

The distribution of certificates by the principal and dignitaries was the highlight of the ceremony, marking the culmination of the graduates' hard work and dedication. This was followed by an inspiring closing address, leaving the graduates with words of wisdom to carry forward in their professional journey. The ceremony concluded with the national song, instilling a sense of unity and pride. As a thoughtful gesture, first-year students assisted their seniors with refreshments, fostering a spirit of camaraderie and teamwork.

Conclusion

The year 2024–2025 was a testament to the vibrant and active participation of our alumnae in the life of the College of Education. Through workshops, motivational sessions, and the annual meet, the Alumna Cell has been instrumental in nurturing a culture of mentorship, collaboration, and lifelong connection. We thank all our alumnae for their continued support and commitment. Their contributions inspire our current students and uphold the legacy of excellence our college stands for.
